LONDON, May 16.—The split between the liberals and the Irish members of Parliament over the educational bill, which gave the majority of 267 in the House of Commons, has been the leading feature of home politics during the week. The matter is warmly discussed in all the newspapers. The liberals are very bitter against the Irish for supporting the government, especially as the Irish are apparently prepared to support the agricultural rating bill, if its provisions are extended to Ireland. The liberals, in their wrath, say that the action of the Irish members is a severe blow to home rule, as it has alienated from them the sympathy of the nonconformists who, it is alleged, are now convinced that the Irish vote is controlled by the priests.

Thus the cry that "Home rule means Rome rule" is again raised in some quarters. The two leading home rule organs, the Daily News and Daily Chronicle, claim to regard the situation as very serious. The paper first named published letters on the subject from leading nonconformists, such as Rev. Guinness Rogers, Rev. Hugh Price Hughes and Dr. Charles Barry. Dr. Rogers declares that the action of the Irish M. P.'s amounted to "flouting home rule principles and that it has postponed home rule sine die." Rev. Hugh Price Hughes writes that the vote shows that the Irish home rule party is the Rome rule party and adds: "And that when the time comes to the point, they will sacrifice home rule, political gratitude and every other consideration to the wishes of the priests."

Though the liberals and nonconformists undoubtedly exaggerate the gravity of the situation, there is no doubt that importance must be attached to these statements, as the nonconformists have been the backbone of the home rule campaign in England. The speaker today, referring to the split, says: "We do not wish to use hard words to the Irish home rule party who deliberately broke the alliance with their political friends in England, but it cannot be denied that the vote proves that they are under the domination of the priests and by the vote have placed themselves in an entirely different position in regard to the English parties. The step may lead to very momentous consequences."

On the other hand it is believed in some circles that the Irish have become convinced that they have nothing but promises to expect from the liberals under any consideration, and that, therefore, they are placing their hopes upon the conservatives, whose proposed land legislation for Ireland is undoubtedly well intended and has been well received.

According to the statement published, a committee representing the so-called radical party, will shortly issue a manifesto significantly omitting all reference to home rule. Its energetic will be directed to advocating the abolition of the House of Lords.

NEW BICYCLE COMING.

The remarkable activity in the bicycle trade during the past six months is causing an industrial revolution at Birmingham and other centers. Thousands of skilled mechanics have deserted gun-making and other industries for the bicycle factories, where they are working double time and earning big wages.

Apparently, American bicycles are making headway here. At first the conservatives strongly condemned. The Chronicle observed in this connection that "British makers must reduce the weight and simplify the adjustments of bicycles or suffer greatly from comparison with the American wheels, which are five to seven pounds lighter."

Land and Water learns that a new bicycle invention, which is looked upon as likely to supersede pneumatic tires, is shortly to be presented to the public. It is vaguely described as "a bicycle, the pneumatic slung," while the wheels are solid tires. Thus, it is claimed, there is no danger of puncture, the resilience is perfect, there is an entire absence of vibration, and the machine can be produced at half the cost of the present machines.

It is reported that Richard Croker lost $30,000 by the defeat of his horse, Eau Gallie on May 8, in the race for the Fulwell plate, at Kempton park.

It is reported that Mr. Perry Belmont is here on a mission connected with the silver question. He had a conference at the United States embassy yesterday, and was interviewed Lord Salisbury, who has been prominent in the movement, today.

ALL GOES WELL ON THE NILE.

The Anglo-Egyptian expedition up the Nile is proceeding without the slightest hitch. The Derwishes appear to be temporarily demoralized, though they may be simply biding their time and preparing to strike a powerful blow when the British troops arrive. The dispatch of Indian troops to the Soudan at Suakin has given great satisfaction and confidence to the inhabitants. Egyptian troops from Suakin will be sent to join the Nile expedition. The operations will be commenced in earnest after the great heat of summer passes away. When the advance begins everything that is possible to be done toward ensuring the success of the expedition will have been done. Spies report that the Emir of Dongola has appointed to the khedive for reinforcements, declaring he is unable to oppose the Egyptian troops with the present force at his disposal. The khedive, it is added, has sent reinforcements to Dongola from Herber, but he is said to be afraid to dispatch troops from Omdurman and to be anxiously awaiting the British expedition. Upon that occasion he expects crowds of Arabs to pour into Omdurman and he proposes to take advantage of this to reinforce the frontier posts from their ranks. Finally, it is rumored that the khedive is prepared on the first serious reverse to bolt for Central Sudan.

BIG MILITARY DEBATE IS PROMISED

Question of Restoring the Triennial Service Must Be Settled Within the Next Ten Months—Notes of the Fatherland.

BERLIN, May 16.—The German clergy, Protestant and Catholic, are thoroughly aroused in consequence of the message of Emperor William to Dr. Heinrich Stoecker, regarding Dr. Stoecker, the ex-court chaplain and Christian socialist leader, which was published with his majesty's consent. This message was almost brutally brusque and read: "The clergy must not meddle with politics; it is no concern of theirs."

This angered the clergymen and the whole clerical press has been expressing indignation. Dr. Stoecker has made an outspoken reply in his organ, the Evangelical Church Gazette, in which he says the emperor, when still Prince William, himself characterized the Christian-social activity of the clergy as a means of vanquishing socialism. Dr. Stoecker added: "Since Christian-social thought was tabooed in Berlin, socialism reigns politically there. As I have begun so shall I continue. I leave the end to God." Two of the leading clerical organs, the Reichsbote and the Volksseher, condemn and deplore the publication of the telegram, classing it as "inconsiderate" and "unjust," and pointing out that clergymen by the constitution are granted the same rights as other citizens. The Roman Catholic organs, the Germania and the Cologne Volks Zeitung, publish articles of a similar tone. The socialist press pronounces the telegram as imperial interference with public rights and in various parts of German clerical synods have taken steps to express sympathy with Dr. Stoecker and his methods and to severely criticize his majesty's telegram.

PEACE JUBILEE FETES.

Early in the week the peace jubilee was celebrated throughout Germany. Besides the fetes at Frankfurt, there were elaborate fetes of a semi-military character at Dresden, Darmstadt and Hanover, and a vast festival in this city, organized by the veterans of the war, of whom 7,000 marched in procession. The jubilee was kept generally in Bavaria, especially at Munich, Nuremberg and Augsburg. Twenty thousand children paraded at Munich, and were reviewed by Prince Regent Luitpold. It was remarked, however, that the fetes in Bavaria were strictly of a Bavarian character; that only Bavarian flags were displayed; that neither the emperor nor Prince Bismarck were referred to in the oratory, and that no reference to Germany or the German army was permitted, the official censorship exercising everything from the submitted speeches, referring to the nation generally. Several of the persons arrested at Frankfurt on the charge of lese majeste, including incriminating remarks in close proximity to, and even within hearing of the emperor, during the unveiling there on Sunday last, of the monument erected to the memory of Emperor William I.

The report that Emperor William intended to challenge for the America's cup, if his new yacht Meteor, turned out to be faster than Valkyrie III, was investigated by the European manager of the Associated Press. A dispatch was sent direct to his majesty at Primenau, Silesia, where the emperor and empress were visiting Prince Guadix of Schleswig-Holstein, his majesty's brother-in-law. The dispatch read:

To His Imperial Majesty, the Emperor of Germany, Primenau: As European manager of the Associated Press, representing the leading papers throughout the United States and Canada, I venture to ask if the published report that your majesty would challenge for the America's cup with Meteor is true? The rumor causes the greatest interest in America.

The following reply was sent to London: Walter Neef, European Manager of the Associated Press, London, England: The report that his majesty would challenge for the America's cup is erroneous, as Meteor will only sail in European waters.

MORE MILITARY SERVICE.

In connection with the bill to reorganize the Fourth battalion of infantry regiments, the military and military bills have begun an agitation for the abolition of the biennial military service and for a revival of the triennial. The Kreuz Zeitung (the military weekly) is leading the agitation in the press. According to the present law the biennial service is only an experiment and ends April 1, 1897, unless specifically continued by a new law. As a counter check to this movement the radicals in the Reichstag have resolved to add a paragraph to the fourth battalion bill, making the biennial service permanent. An interesting and sensational debate will be the result, as the centerists mainly side with the radicals in this matter.

The agitation for a larger navy has been renewed. Lectures are being delivered in different parts of the country under the auspices of the Alldeutscher Verband, to promote the movement.

The trial of the band of fifteen fraudulent railroad employees and ticket swindlers of Frankfurt is expected to be concluded today. The gang, it was shown during the testimony taken, has been operating for several years on a number of Prussian, Silesian and Hessian roads. The frauds are estimated to amount up to 1,500,000 marks and it is said the prisoners despatched thousands of passengers for a consideration given them with tickets which had previously been used. The chief police spy in the case is understood to be a habitual criminal who has spent years in prison.

The rejection by the Diet of the assessor paragraph by which the Prussian government sought to exclude all liberal elements from the judgeship will induce the government to withdraw the whole of the court reform law, they declining to accept the bill in its present liberal shape.

MADRID, Spain, May 15.—(Via Bayonne, France, May 16.—New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram.)—Here is an account of the negotiations between the United States and Spain about the Competitor case:

Minister Taylor was instructed from Washington to insist upon the suspension of execution of the Havana court-martial sentence. The Madrid government assented to the suspension without a demur, and wired the necessary peremptory order to General Weyler.

Then the American State department made a new demand for a copy of the record of the court-martial proceedings and insight into all the details of the case, with a view to ascertaining if the protocol of 1877 had been observed in committing American citizens to a summary and extraordinary court-martial. The text of the protocol left no room for argument on this point, the Madrid cabinet admitted.

Next day Washington officials took steps to learn if proper guaranty of the fair trial stipulated by the said protocol had been granted, as information obtained regarding the trial, including the report of General Williams, indicated that this had been denied. There the matter stands.

The Madrid government, perceiving the blunder of the naval authorities at Havana, instantly offered to follow the Spanish rule, submit such cases to the supreme military and naval court of appeals at Madrid and order the whole matter referred to Madrid for revision. This course will allow the government to argue for the purpose of Spanish domestic politics, that it has acted under no foreign pressure, and is simply ordering new trials to take place under the treaties. This revision will require months, and will allow the jingo agitation to die out.

GIVES PRISONERS A CHANCE.

Meanwhile the American government can raise other and broader issues concerning the accusations against American citizens on board the Competitor, and the question whether a civil or the ordinary military courts are competent to try them. Naturally the penalties would be different.

So far the American government has in no wise recognized the Spanish contention that the American citizens were made prisoners in the act of armed resistance against the Spanish coast guards. If they had been captured in arms they would be liable under the protocol of 1877 to be tried by an ordinary naval court martial. The general impression here is that American interference will ultimately save the lives of these men.

Trustworthy private advices from Havana show that the insurgents are 10,000 strong and that 7,000 well armed men are scouring the whole country outside the garrisoned towns.

The distress of all classes is getting worse daily. Six thousand persons, chiefly of the upper and middle classes, emigrated in ten weeks. Most of the planters are deeply in debt. No progress is made in the military operations, as the rebel leaders merely hold on to wear out the imperial resources. The American legation applied for this week and obtained an exequatur from the Spanish government for Consul General Lee.

An official notice sent to the Madrid newspapers reads: "Minister Dupuy de Lome presented notes May 9 and 11, complaining that filibuster expeditions were allowed to start on the steamers Bermuda and Laurada. He received from the State department at Washington an official promise promising a prompt investigation, and the dismissal of all the federal authorities guilty of negligence, which proves the care and consistency with which the American government endeavors to fulfill its international obligations." SENTENCES ON THE REFORMERS.

Banishment Clause is Confirmed by the Transvaal Executive.

CAPE TOWN, May 16.—The Transvaal executive has confirmed the sentence of banishment of the members of the reform committee.

F. L. Gray, one of the prisoners, becoming insane recently, succeeded in committing suicide by cutting his throat. At the close of the recent trial of the members of the reform committee, charged with plotting against the Transvaal, after the sentence of death had been pronounced upon the leaders, a sentence which was afterwards commuted, the judge, addressing the other prisoners assembled of complicity, said:

"Each and every one of you will be kept in jail for the period of two years at such place as the government shall appoint and all of you shall be fined the sum of $10,000, or in default, a further term of one year's imprisonment, and at the expiration of the term you shall be banished from this republic for three years, confirmation of banishment to be left in the hands of the executive, according to law."

A dispatch from Johannesburg, dated May 6, said the sentence of the so-called reformers (outlanders) would be reduced, the Standard and Diggers' News claimed to have authority for announcing, to a small fine and imprisonment. It was also announced in the Johannesburg newspapers that the sentence of banishment would be waived.

SHERMAN, Tex., May 16.—Today the waters in the creeks and brooks have subsided and thousands of spectators have traversed the path of yesterday's tornado. SHERMAN, Tex., May 16.—Today the waters in the creeks and brooks have subsided and thousands of spectators have traversed the path of yesterday's tornado. Every business house in this city except the drug stores and eating houses suspended business at an early hour this morning at the request of the city council and the attention of everybody has been turned toward caring for the wounded and the dead, the number of which is hourly increasing from deaths in the hospitals and bodies found in the subsiding streams. The city street grading force, supplemented by a large number of men, have been transferred by Street Commissioner Morehead and have been busily engaged in preparing graves for the victims of the storm. The undertaking establishments are being taxed to the limit.

The full results of the storm may never be known. Already the list of known dead in this town alone numbers over eighty, and about a dozen more may die at any moment. Here are the names, so far as they can be tabulated up to midnight:
